Relocating with Children After Divorce

In Illinois, in order for one parent to relocate, more than 25 miles, that parent must follow a certain procedure. First, the relocating parent must provide to the other parent written notice of the intended relocation, and said notice must be filed with the court. The notice must be given at least 60 days prior to the relocation (unless impracticable) and must include the intended date of the parent's relocation, the address of the parent's intended new residence, if known, and the length of time the relocation will last if it will not be permanent. If the non-relocating parent agrees and signs the notice, and the signed notice is filed with the court, then nothing else needs to be done. If the other parent does not agree and sign the notice however, then(Read more)

Legal Movie Review: Miracle on 34th Street

Miracle On 34th Street is a classic holiday film. This film really has it all, it is a heartwarming classic that contains a love story, timeless fashion, and competency hearing that makes the viewer reevaluate their belief system. The film focuses on a man by the name of Kris Kringle. He is hired by a no-nonsense woman to step in for as Santa at the Macy's Thanksgiving Day parade. After his appearance in the parade Kris becomes an overnight sensation. Kris has the look and the attitude necessary to fill the big shoes, and coat of the character he was hired to portray. He begins to regularly appear as Santa at Macy's for the holiday season. As the film progresses the people around Kris begin to have serious concerns about his mental health and capacity. Kris seems to seriously believe that he is Santa Clause. Following a series of unfortunate (Read more)
